CITRI-LICIOUS

Citrus fruits are a chef's best friend during winter. Not only are they in their peak season, but their bright, sunny flavors provide a refreshing contrast to the cold and dreary weather outside. Lemons, limes, oranges, and grapefruits are just the tip of the iceberg when it comes to the variety of citrus fruits available during the winter season. With these ingredients, chefs can experiment and add unique twists to their menus, along with specialty veggies from the US and beyond.

Andy Boy has finally gotten into the Gem Lettuce game.

Many chefs hold strong opinions about which packer produces the best Gem Lettuce. Church Bros Gem Lettuce has often been the fan favorite.

However, production issues at Church have led to an unstable market and numerous supply gaps. Andy Boy informs us that their Baby Gem Lettuce will be consistently available year-round.

With the introduction of Andy Boy Baby Gem, hopefully, those shortages will become a distant memory. Andy Boy Baby Gem offers the same tight heads with crisp, pale, sweet centers and minimal waste from discarded outer leaves.

Packed in a 42ct box (as opposed to the 32ct Church Box), not only does Andy Boy Gem match in quality, but it also exceeds the competition in value.

Do a side-by-side-by-side comparison today, and you'll notice the advantages of Andy Boy Baby Gem lettuce.
